Executive Summary

Performance Summary

The META advertising campaign over the past week had a total spend of $907.90, resulting in 75,990 impressions and 436 clicks, yielding a click-through rate (CTR) of 0.57%. The average cost per action varied significantly across demographics, with the 18-24 male group showing the highest cost per action at $47.90.

Notable Trends

- The 25-34 male demographic generated the most actions (18,522) despite spending $261.70, indicating potential for higher engagement.
- The unknown gender category performed well in terms of cost per action ($0.44) but had the lowest overall spend and impressions.

Actionable Recommendations

- Focus on optimizing ads targeting the 25-34 male demographic, as they demonstrate higher engagement and actions.
- Consider reallocating budget from lower-performing segments (e.g., 18-24 females) to boost visibility and engagement for the 25-34 age group.
- Explore additional targeting strategies for the unknown gender category to increase impressions and actions while maintaining low cost per action.
